Preface

One thing discovered while researching for this document is that Starfleet Command has been represented in print, multiple ways throughout Fandom for 50 years.

In the early years, the organization operated under different titles such as Starfleet Central, Starfleet Headquarters, Starfleet Command, Star Fleet Command and at times, simply Starfleet. Reorganizations in the early years brought everything under one banner, Starfleet Command. The one thing that has not changed is the roots from which we grew, in that we are still a family - fan friendly, fan run organization.

We've been fortunate in that we have been able to overcome the power-lust of position, and the greed of the more business structured organizations and fan clubs. 50 years later, we maintain a fan friendly atmosphere, run by volunteers. These members give freely of their time and experience to keep the organization strong and viable. Our members are the true heroes in our history.

Throughout the decades some things have changed, while others have remained the same. The title of the organization's newsletter would be one example of this.

'Starfleet Communications' was the title given in 1974 and remains as such today. (with copyright) The bi-laws governing the actions of the organization would be another. Still aptly titled the "Articles of Federation", (with copyright) but evolved and evolving to keep the organization going forward. Surprisingly, much of the same verbiage in the original document is still applies in today's updated version.

As you view the enclosed material, we hope you will keep in mind that some of these documents are up to 50 years old. Some were typed on typewriters and the best we can get for a digital copy is a picture or a scan.

Fun Fact

In 1964, the pilot episode of Star Trek, 'The Cage' was completed. The stars included Jeffrey Hunter as Captain Christopher Pike, Majel Barrett in the position of Number One and Leonard Nimoy, in the role as Spock. NBC rejected the pilot under the guise of being too cerebral, among other items. A second pilot episode was requested and became 'Where No Man Has Gone Before'.

After the second pilot received a more favorable response from NBC, Star Trek aired its first episode 'The Man Trap' on September 8th, 1966. Star Trek the original series aired on television between 1966 and 1969, and featured 79 episodes.

THE BEGINNING 1974—1977

Our roots began in Lufkin Texas, Angelina County, located in deep East Texas, about 115 miles north-east of Houston. In 1970 the population was 23,000 and Star Trek was only available as a rerun since the show had been canceled in 1969.

In 1973, a group of friends, as well as Star Trek fans, led by teenagers John Bradbury and Jay Wallace wanted to join a Star Trek fan club. This occurred four years after the series ended and they quickly discovered that there was nothing available to them in the area. Mr. Bradbury and Mr. Wallace, who were in high school at the time, decided take the next step and form a club. Little did they realize the journey they were embarking upon or the legacy they would be passing forward 50 years later.

Going where no one had gone before.

U.S.S. Enterprise

The USS Enterprise was formed in Lufkin Texas and launched in 1973. It began as 12 members, with teenagers John Bradbury and Jay Wallace leading the group.

Word spread quickly and in just a few short months, other individuals and groups were asking to join and begin their own chapters. The club surged to 50+ members.

John Bradbury

In OCTOBER 1974, Commander John Bradbury stepped down as the Commanding Officer of USS Enterprise and stepped into the new role of Chief of Staff of Starfleet, giving birth to the organization we now have. The role/position of Chief of Staff would later be retitled Fleet Commander.

An early membership flyer. (Early 1974) Note: For Membership, make checks payable to John Bradbury, Lufkin Texas. ($3.00)

In May 1974, the first official newsletter was published under the title STARFLEET COMMUNICATIONS and it continues to carry the same title at present.

Newsletters were manually typed and sent to a print shop, unless you were lucky enough to know someone who had access to a printer. In the 1970's in-home printers were an uncommon commodity.

Newsletters were laid out and put together using a typewriter, taken to a printer and copies made. They were then folded, placed in an envelope, sealed, addressed, stamped and mailed.

STARFLEET'S FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Due to expensive printing costs, Starfleet Communications must be reduced in size until these costs can be relieved. This means making use of all available paper space without mixing subjects. This may cause some difficulty in reading, but it's the best we can do. Please bear with us. And if anyone has free access to a copying machine, contact Starfleet Command. A note: I cannot be reached in person during July 31-August 15, but mail replies and phones service will resume August 16. That's why this issue is being published early. Live long and prosper!

Commodore John Bradbury

Corrections on STARFLEET ORGANIZATION:

Officers must come to meetings and work on Starfleet Activities in their city or county, and are required to participate in all major policy decisions of their starship, whether in person, by phone, or by mail.

Commands are no longer limited to counties. Regions of states are now used. The first member in a region (outlined by Starfleet Command) will be placed in command of the ship of his (or her) choice if he recruits a minimum of ten new members. They need not be from that region.

The address for the USS Enterprise has been changed. Captain Belinda McCall is now in command of it. A new Starfleet division, Canopus 3, is yet to reach full Starship status and is commanded by Lieutenant Andy McCorkle. It serves the state of Ohio. The addresses are:

Starfleet, USS Enterprise,
Starfleet, Canopus 3,

MEETINGS

The highest ranking officer in a city or county is permitted to call meetings. The officers set the time and place and is responsible for notifying all personnel in his city or county. Because of widespread membership, a personal meeting such as this of an entire starship would be almost impossible. Discussion topics could be published in the starship's newsletter, all member of the starship send their comments on the topics back to the starship commander, and then a summary of the comments is published in the next newsletter, thus achieving the same purpose. Key topics could be introduced in each newsletter and members could contribute topics. Additional suggestions are welcome and needed.

MEMBERSHIP CARDS

Starfleet membership cards are being improved. They are called Starfleet Identity Cards. They are color-coded as to section (green, Command; blue, Science; red, Engineering/Ship's Services). Starfleet Command fills in the information and sends the card to the member. The member should sign it, have his commanding officer sign it (the c.o. may get it first, sign it, and give it to the member), and then put his right thumbprint in the space provided (using ink). Then he should send the card back to Starfleet Command, along with a recent photo of himself. Starfleet Command will put the photo on and spray the card with plastic. Then it will be sent to the member. It may be two months before we start getting the cards to you, so please be patient.

Fun Facts

1973 - The first MRI image was published.

1974 - February 8 - After a record 84 days in orbit, the crew of Skylab 4 returns to Earth.

1975 - Concorde makes the world's first commercial passenger-carrying supersonic flight.

1975 - The Apollo-Soyuz Test Project begins, where an American Apollo spacecraft and a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft dock in orbit, marking the first such link-up between spacecraft from the two nations.

Brigham Young University Star Trek Club (1975)

STAR TREK CLUB

Starfleet Command is now accepting applications from academy cadets for assignment to their newest starship. She has been launched and is presently serving her first assignment. A rest and recreational stop is scheduled on starbase six, at 562 ELWC at 8 p.m. today. All potential crew members and officers are invited to attend.

The call for organizing BYU's Star Trek club on September 18th, 1975

The ship was the Excalibur, and plans were made to hold a convention, ExcaliCon, in fall of 1976, but those plans never came to fruition. The room where the meetings were held in 1975 is now an office. The USS Excalibur NCC 1705 decommissioned sometime after the year 1999. After the success of Star Wars in 1977, the club became the Association of Science Fiction and Fantasy. In the late 1980s, it merged with Quark, the less-fannish group, to become Quark: the Association of Science Fiction and Fantasy. Through fits and starts, Quark remains on campus and has been one of the largest clubs at BYU

In 1976, the organization boasted 400+ members and a number of chapters had been established around the U.S. Annual membership was $3.00.

In the next couple of years, the organization operated under different titles such as Starfleet Central, Starfleet Headquarters, Starfleet Command, Star-Fleet Command and at times, simply Starfleet.

One of Admiral Bradbury's last acts as Chief of Staff was to expand Starfleet through the creation of ten new staff positions.

In the fall of 1977, Admiral Bradbury retired from active duty in the organization, to enter college. He passed the leadership of the club to Adeline Longshaw.

Mr. Bradbury went on to attend Texas A&M University from 1978 to 1982, earning a Bachelor of Science degree and graduating Summa Cum Laude. He continued his education at the University of Houston-Clear Lake from 1983 to 1987 and earned a Master of Science degree.

His professional life has consisted of multiple projects, working with NASA in 'Human Exploration and Operations', the 'Space Shuttle' programs, the 'International Space Station' and with Lockheed Martin Space Mission Systems and Services. Mr. Bradbury was last reported as retired and enjoying life in Florida.

Fun Facts

1977 - The first home personal computer, the Commodore PET, is released for retail sale.

1977 - Blockbuster science-fiction film Star Wars debuts in theaters.

1977 - The Atari 2600 becomes the first successful home video game system, popularizing the use of microprocessor-based hardware and cartridges containing game codes.

1978 - 1980

Adeline Longshaw

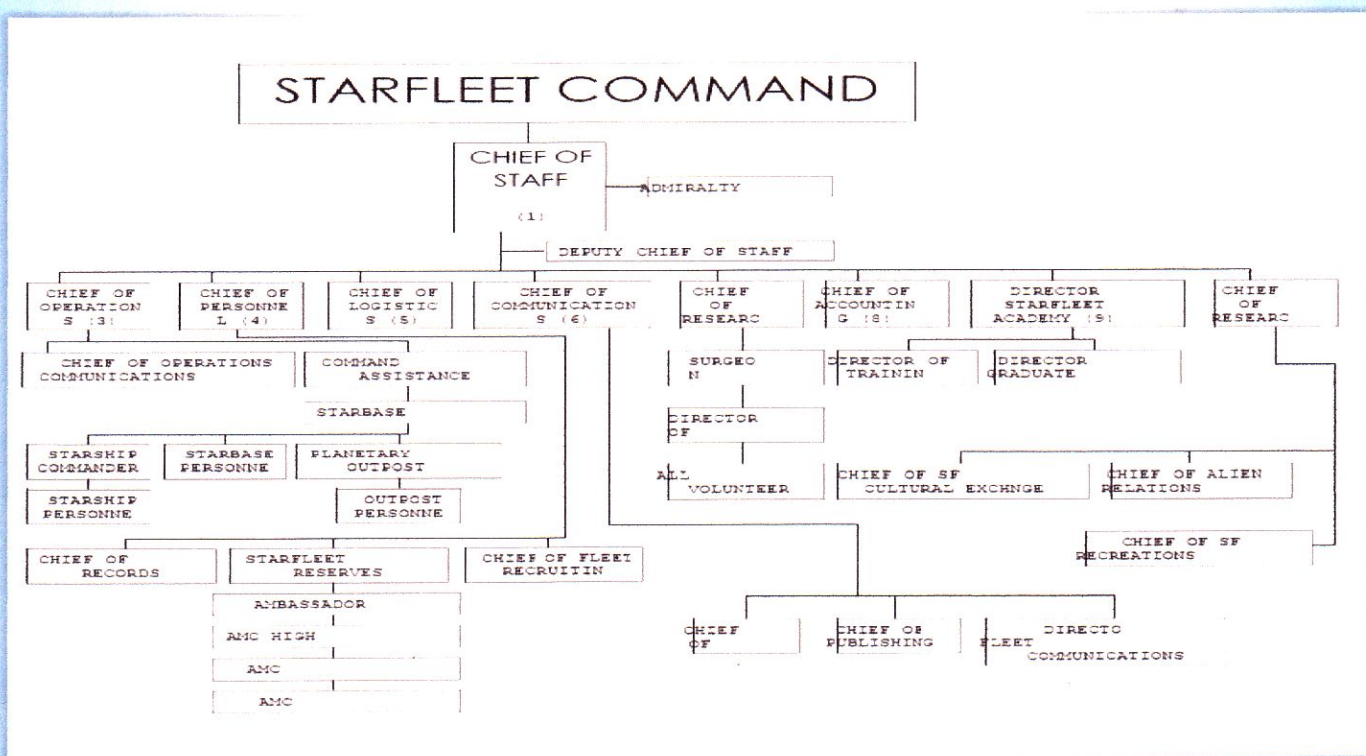

In 1978, the second person stepping into the position of Chief of Staff/Fleet Commander, was 47-year-old Adeline Longshaw. Also credited as the first mature adult to chair the organization. She resided in San Diego CA., during the term of her command, which placed Starfleet Command headquarters in California.

Since Admiral Bradbury had expanded Starfleet, through the creation of ten new staff positions, including Chief of Communications, Chief of Operations, Chief of Fleet Recruiting, and Chief of Personnel, it fell to Admiral Longshaw to help fill these positions when she began her term. She brought everything under one title and gave the organization more of a military structure as well as adding some new positions, including Chief of Logistics.

Membership continued to grow, with four hundred thirty-one members and eighteen starships by the end of 1978. Membership dues increased to $4.00 for new members, with renewals remaining $3.00.

"The organization began another rapid expansion as a fan club in 1979. A formal Organizational Chart was put into place reflecting actual military structure to allow the club to function more efficiently and departments were standardized. Starfleet Central referred to the office of Chief of Staff, Starfleet Headquarters referred to the Admiralty Board members and their staff and the overall organization was referred to as Starfleet Command." (Don Dailey)

All chapter COs sent their reports to the Command Assistance Committee (CAC), headed by Brandt Heatherington. The CAC also served as a place

ADMIRAL'S LOG

After a long hiatus, I have several important statements to make. First, a mighty cheer to John Bradbury who founded the club which grew to become Starfleet. Two years ago, he had serious doubts about continuing the organization. All the records were backlogged because of his personal commitments and schedule. I volunteered to take over with the resolve that I would work to my utmost to keep Starfleet a viable organization.

Several months ago, a number of events happened which seriously affected that resolve. I suffered a disabling condition, which, fortunately, has left only minor residual effects. My oldest daughter escaped death by the slimmest of cobwebs. After heroic surgery to save her, she required intensive nursing care. Another relative, a six year old girl, suffered a near fatal attack from a syndrome which will require life-long medication. Then my ex-husband died suddenly from a heart attack, with resultant trauma to all my children. I have not recited all this to elicit sympathy, but rather as a means for your understanding why Starfleet was very low on my priorities. I was really operating with one oar out of water. But, some real good has come out of all this.

Both my troubles and John Bradbury's have pointed up a serious flaw in the set-up of Starfleet. When the inability of one member to function at normal capacity disables the entire organization, it indicates over-centralization. Thanks to the gargantuan efforts of John Wetsch and Brandt Heatherington, along with an able assist from John Lunt and the many who volunteered their help, Starfleet organization has undergone a complete overhaul. This should keep Starfleet viable and functioning, no matter who "goes under".

Many thanks to all of you who have stuck with us through the good times and the bad. With the advent of Star Trek-The Motion Picture, I know our ranks will swell and We will continue to be the biggest and the best.

Fleet Admiral Adeline Longshaw

STARFLEET
COMMUNICATIONS

'Starfleet Communications' moved to a legal-sized format since more information could be included at a lower cost. It continued to have dozens of articles on Star Trek (including information on Star Trek: The Motion Picture) and started to include graphics for the first time.

At the high point of Admiral Longshaw's administration, the organization had grown in active starships and planetary outposts with a total of 700 members by October of 1979.

Fun Facts

1978 - January 24 Soviet satellite Kosmos 954 burns up in Earth's atmosphere, scattering debris over Canada's Northwest Territories.

1978 - February 27 - The first global positioning satellite, the Rockwell International-built Navstar 1, is launched by the United States.

STARFLEET ACADEMY

MESSAGE FROM DIRECTOR, STARFLEET ACADEMY

To all the sentient life forms of Starfleet, I say greetings, peace and long life! I am Rear Admiral David Wilton, the Director of Starfleet Academy, formerly of P.O. Antos IV and The USS Republic, in the north-east sector.

I would like to invite you all to participate in the extracurricular activity of the Academy. I believe it will add to the enjoyment of Starfleet and you will be more knowledgeable and have a better understanding of the world of 'Star Trek'. We have several courses available now for you and are working on others, as well as expanding what we have. A partial listing would be: Astronomy, A & A, Geology, and Space Medicine. For the new membership, a cadet phase must first be passed. The Commander of the USS Columbia and the cadets is Fleet Captain Mike Rathke, Director of Training. For the rest of those who wish to get additional training and degrees in the various fields, you'll report to the Director of Starfleet Academy's Post-Graduate School, Commodore Martin Halbert. Both of these fine officers will report to me on your progress.

Prior to my appointment as Director of Starfleet Academy, I earned both a B.S. and a Masters degree in Astronomy and am currently working on my Doctorate in Space Medicine.

If you have any questions, or are the least bit curious, please write to me. It is really worth your time and effort.

Thank you.

Again, long life and peace.

August 11 1979, Proclaimed "Star Trek" Day

"August 11, 1979 was proclaimed Star Trek Day in Killdeer by the Killdeer City Commission. We had a Starfleet/Star Trek Display in the City Hall. Also, the success of Star Trek day has prompted Gov. Arthur Link of the State of North Dakota to proclaim a statewide Space Sciences Day on behalf of Starfleet and StarTrek".

Excerpt from 1979, STARFLEET COMMUNICATIONS newsletter.

Now, a word from the "Great Bird of the Galaxy", on a subject which is near and dear to all our hearts (thoughtfully forwarded by Adm. John Wetsch).

October 26, 1979

Dear Friends,

Attached are the most recent STAR TREK newsletters from Paramount. Please accept apologies for my own delay in bringing you up to date on STAR TREK - THE MOTION PICTURE, but I am sure you understand that every hour and ounce of available energy has had to be spent on the film project itself.

No one can make a science fiction movie of this size without meeting more than one crisis, and we've had our share. On the other hand, the film is looking very good, and my enthusiasm is rising as I see more and more of the picture coming together. It has seemed nip and tuck whether all of our opticals could be delivered on schedule, but it appears now that all the essential ones will be completed on time.

Certainly, it is comforting to know that talents like Robert Wise, Doug Trumbull and John Dykstra are fighting to meet our schedules.

The STAR TREK film premiere is going to require some understanding from very special fans and friends like yourself. Those receiving this letter deserve to be invited to the premiere far more than many of the people who will actually attend. It will premiere in Washington D.C. on December 6th as a benefit performance for the National Space Club and with the cooperation of the Smithsonian Institution -- a fairly small theatre with limited seating capacity. If this were the "best of all possible worlds" the STAR TREK premiere would be a gigantic fan event.

I would have much preferred to do it that way. On the other hand, it does seem to say something for STAR TREK and its fans that notables in science, government and art are publicly acknowledging our show in the nation's capital this way.

For those of you who have inquired, I have completed the novelization of STAR TREK — THE MOTION PICTURE, and the book will appear in book stores on December 1st. Doing my first STAR TREK novel was one of the most pleasant labors since the writing of the first pilot script. Meanwhile, the hardcover book titled THE MAKING OF STAR TREK - THE MOTION PICTURE has been completed and will be published in February. It was written and researched by Susan Sackett, who had access to everyone from director to janitor during the making of the film, and who has done a splendid job of researching and writing the inside story of how our film was made.

"We are doing our best to make STAR TREK — THE MOTION PICTURE something near what you wanted. we are also trying very hard to make it even a little more wherever possible.

Warmest regards,

Gene Roddenberry

Adeline Longshaw stepped down in late fall of 1979 due to family health issues.

Fleet Admiral Adeline Longshaw passed away October 23, 2010.

In Memory of Adeline S. Longshaw

1930 – 2010 Addie was born at home, December 21, 1930, in Little Falls, MN. She was the youngest of 7 children born to Michael A. and Frances (Kammermeyer) Grittner. She passed October 28, 2010 at her home east of Preston, surrounded by family. She was united in marriage with Melvin Joseph Peka in 1950, and to this union 5 children were born. She lived and raised her family in San Diego where she met and married Joseph Frederick Longshaw on October 12, 1969 She was preceded in death by her husband Melvin, her husband Joseph, her brothers Leander, Sylvester, Elmer, and Alfred, her sisters Elaine and Sara, and her son Joseph. She is survived by 3 daughters and 1 son: Patricia Weitz and her son Raymond Weitz of the home, Teresa Kidney and her husband Chuck of Ft. Collins, CO, Regina Charlton and her husband Virgil of Branch, MO, Michael Peka of Santa Barbara, CA, 11 grandchildren, 8 great grandchildren, 3 great-great grandchildren, several nieces and nephews, and many friends and adopted family members.

Addie grew up in Minnesota. She lettered in tumbling in school and graduated in 1949. She later earned an Associate's Degree in Business Administration in San Diego, CA. The family moved to Alaska in 1970 for two years where she learned to snow ski, run a TV station, create ceramics, and become a crack shot with a rifle. She retired from a career in civil service in 1992 and moved to Hickory County with her husband Joe, a retired Navy Chief. They were happily married 35 years, until his passing in 2004. She was actively involved in many civic and community organizations including the Hickory County Community Foundation, the Tri-County Literacy Coalition, the Good Neighbor Club, the HCFRW, NARFE, PTA, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Garden Club, Mensa, Red Hat Society, and many others. She loved gardening and was known for her special life-like scarecrow characters. She loved doing things with her family such as camping, games, and story-telling. Every year her kids, grandkids, and other kids of all ages would gather in her kitchen to build gingerbread houses with her. She loved participating in the Christmas parades and was an awesome Mrs. Claus. She really enjoyed dressing up and acting silly from tea parties with her granddaughters to acting on stage in community productions. She was known as the Story Lady to local kindergartners and 1st graders. She was the family historian and genealogy expert.

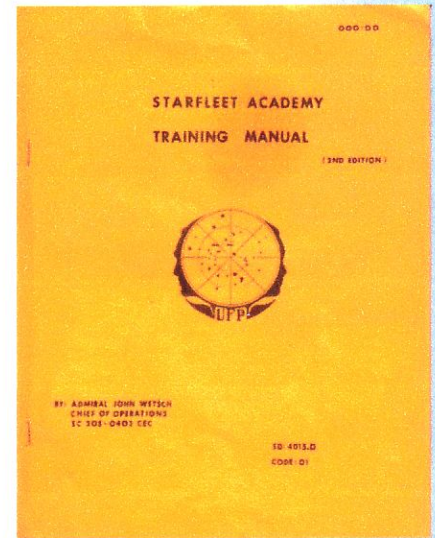

She was an avid sci-fi fan and a retired Starfleet Admiral. She loved to work on puzzles, play Bingo, Scrabble, and go to dinner theaters. She was a terrific mom, and a great role model. She was loved and respected by all who knew her. Her kindness touched the lives of many. She put her heart and soul into helping others. She will be greatly missed.

John Wetsch

John Wetsch was a high school student from Killdeer North Dakota, when he joined Starfleet Command in 1976. He served in many positions, including the Starfleet Command Academy. While there, he produced the first "Starfleet Command Academy Training Manual". First editions are very difficult to come by. It was popular enough that it was reprinted as second edition, some of which can still be found for sale on eBay.

In 1979 , 20-year-old college student John Wetsch, the Chief of Operations with the rank of Admiral, received a call from Fleet Admiral Adeline Longshaw, requesting he take command of SFC. At the time, the Chief of Personnel was Brandt Heatherington, who was in High School and lived in Alexandria, Virginia. During Fleet Admiral Wetsch's term, SFC headquarters moved to North Dakota where it would remain for the next six years.

"I was about 20 at the time I received the call from Admiral Longshaw to take the reins. I do not remember the exact date but I do remember the event itself well and maybe I will find a record to confirm the actual date. I was a College student. Prior to becoming Chief of Staff I was Chief of Operations. Our Chief of Personnel was Brandt Heatherington who was in High School and lived in Alexandria, Virginia at the time. We had a lot of things to pull together when Adm Longshaw stepped down and had some failures and successes in this regard. I think the biggest thing was that we persevered as it would have been easy enough to close up shop at that time but we didn't want to lose the organization and had a strong belief in the ideals."

Our biggest issue at the time began with trying to make sure memberships were getting processed. I inherited a bit of a mess there. There were people who had applied for membership, not getting anything and rightfully complaining. I was not aware of how bad this was and only thinking we had a solvable backlog. From the complaints though, even The Star Trek Welcomittee took the step to blacklist SFC (Note: We have outlived the STW organization). It took a while to get needed records, for us to get reorganized, and address some other matters as everything was done by either snail mail or long distance phone calls that we couldn't afford. There was of course the money issue and we were not given the treasury and money was coming out of our pockets to try and get this done (I believe Brandt felt more of the brunt on this that I did)."

"My only regret on all of this was that as we were making good progress and moving in the right direction I appointed a new Chief of Personnel (after Brandt stepped down) who had some very good ideas. That was from Oregon and who was a ship captain. So, as things appeared to be coming together and we formed a 3-way command structure of Adm. John Lunt (Texas) as Chief of Operations, promoted Stillwell (Oregon) to the Admiralty as Chief of Personnel, and myself (North Dakota) as Chief of Staff.

But to the surprise and dismay of most of us working on these issues was that one person went out on his own and tried to dissolve Starfleet Command and created the Starfleet organization using the SFC personnel roster provided to him for the COP role. I formally removed him from Starfleet Command but the damage was done and our organization was split. The saving grace was that we still had many loyal SFC leaders on ships and outposts who understood that SFC was the original organization and wanted to stay with it. I do find it somewhat interesting on the revisionist history of the early days of the organization posted by the Starfleet (not SFC) organization when they discuss my Admiralty.

Although our numbers dropped considerably we remained a viable organization. The events that occurred lead me to form a new Admiralty Board structure with members who wanted to help the organization grow, create the Articles of Federation to serve as the constitution and by-laws of the organization, and get our remaining outpost and ship operations units to recruit and remain active. Not to mention needed communications with the newsletter and other stuff. Overall, this took years to get the organization back on track. But this was accomplished and the completion of our Articles of Federation allowed us to apply and get our 501(c) tax exempt status.

"By the time all of the dust settled I had gotten married, we had 2 daughters at the time, and I was starting on my career. I decided I had accomplished what I needed to do to keep SFC alive and viable and made the decision to step down as Chief of Staff. It was time for others to take over leadership and progress the organization further. Also, prior to this I was very fortunate to get the USS Farragut started again in North Dakota and they developed into a very good and active starship at the time. I passed the torch to Don Day and with the change in leadership Indianapolis became the new epicenter for SFC."

Don Dailey

Mr. Dailey joined Starfleet in 1974 and was with the organization from the beginning. He was elected to the position of Chief of Staff at age 38, in 1987 upon FADM John Wetsch's resignation. With the election of FADM Don Dailey, to the Chief of Staff position, Starfleet Headquarters moved to Indiana, where it would remain for the next 34 years. Don endeavored to continue the good works of Admiral Wetsch and keep the group grounded to its roots.

Excerpt from Jan-Mar STARFLEET COMMUNICATIONS- 1993

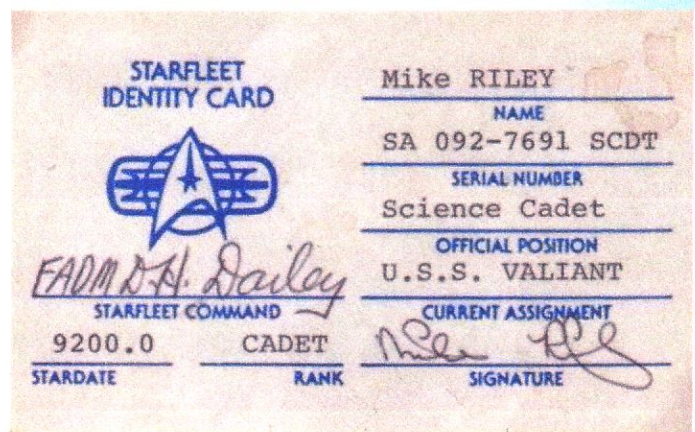

"One thing everyone should remember: the HQ Staff, the individuals responsible for operating the Fleet on a national level, are strictly unpaid volunteers. Real world events like illness or injury, weddings & honey• moons, deaths & funerals, selling or buying homes and moving, loss of or changes in one's job, or mechanical breakdowns can all have a major effect on the time and resources people may devote to a volunteer cause."

FADM Don Dailey

A copy of a 1992 Starfleet Command Identity card. At the time, these were issued to all new members along with a copy of the Articles of Federation. From the copy, you can see each were made individually, personalized and signed by the Fleet Commander. In later years, mailing the ID cards and the AFEDS were discontinued due to the ever increasing cost of postage and printing.

Fun Fact

1987— September 28, Star Trek: The Next Generation airs on television.

Don was reelected in 1990 to a second term and held the chair until 1993, when he stepped down as Chief of Staff.

Don Dailey may have stepped down as Fleet Commander, but he continued to serve Starfleet Command by filling many positions within the SFC Admiralty Board in the coming years.

In 1998, he became the first recipient of Lifetime Achievement Award for Starfleet Command.

In 1998, Fleet Admiral Dailey stepped into a new position as the CINC, (Commander in Chief) of the organization's International Chapters. He held that position until 2007.

These files were pulled from the SFC archives. While the email addresses are no long valid, it represents the volunteers stepping up to ensure Starfleet Command continued to grow, at home and internationally.

TO: All Members of STARFLEET COMMAND and STARBASE INDY attendees

FROM: Fleet Admiral D. H. Dailey, Chief of Staff, STARFLEET COMMAND

Welcome to STARBASE INDY: THE SECOND GENERATION!! The hopes of making STARBASE INDY an annual midwest STAR TREK convention have taken a major step forward with this edition of the Convention. And plans are already being made for STARBASE INDY: THE THIRD GENERATION.

Again this year, STARBASE INDY will be hosting an international meeting of STARFLEET COMMAND chapters. Special programming and events aimed at STARFLEET COMMAND members are featured. Included are a presentation by the Chief of Operations about the organization and purposes of the fleet, and a seminar by the Chief of Engineering on the "Technology of ST: THE NEXT GENERATION." Also, the "Docking Bay" will be available for members of the various STARFLEET COMMAND chapters to meet and display their chapters' memorabilia.

As in the past, many members of our sister organization, Starfleet International, will be attending. To them, and members of other STAR TREK organizations and fan clubs, I would also like to say "welcome" and extend an invitation to attend and participate in our activities.

I look forward to meeting and conversing with many of you during STARBASE INDY, and to share in what promises to be a very enjoyable convention. Have fun and Keep on Trekin'!

It should be noted that 1994 through 1997 were difficult years. Membership and morale suffered due to several leadership changes. The organization refers to this as "the dark years."

1995-1996

Rita Cawthon Clarke

From Gainesville, Florida, Rita was 34 years old at the time she was elected to the Chief of Staff position in 1994. Beginning her term on January 1, 1995.

She resigned in August, 1996 and was replaced by FADM Wayne Chang.

1996 — 1998

Wayne Chang

FADM Wayne Chang joined SFC in 1983 and began his term by renaming some of the staff positions, beginning with the Chief of Staff, changing it to Commander-In-Chief. The Chief of Staff position is then changed to handle only the command support staff (CSS). VADM Paul Sundstrom filled the position. The Chief of Personnel position is reinstated as part of the Admiralty Board. Several other changes occurred as Starfleet Command reorganized again.

Greetings Interested Observer:

Welcome to Starfleet Command Headquarters for Quadrant 1. While we cannot provide you with a deck beneath your feet or the vacuum of space, STARFLEET COMMAND can give you a forum for the free, unencumbered exchange of ideas, views, and beliefs for ourselves and others.

We are:

An international, non-profit group of Star Trek, Science Fiction, and Space Enthusiasts dedicated to the promotion of the Star Trek philosophy & to fostering an understanding of Science Fiction and the need for peaceful space exploration.

What we do:

Our organization began in 1974 and is patterned after STARFLEET COMMAND as seen on Star Trek. We encourage and foster participation in local, regional, national, and international activities. STARFLEET COMMAND is at the forefront of Star Trek organizations dedicated to space exploration, and has made progress in shaping mankind's future in space.

After joining:

Members receive a subscription to our newsletter, STARFLEET COMMUNICATIONS, a Starfleet identification card, duty orders, commissioning certificate, and a copy of the Articles of Federation (AFED). The packet is sent to the unit commander. Initially, all new members are assigned aboard the Starfleet Academy training ship to acquaint them with Starfleet Operations.

Live Long and Prosper.

History of STARFLEET COMMAND

1974 – (October) A group of Star Trek fans in a little town, (Lufkin, Texas) went national/international under Fleet Admiral John Bradbury. In the first few years the group operated under various titles depending upon who was writing the letters. At different times the group was referred to as "Starfleet Central", "Starfleet Headquarters", "Starfleet Command", "Star Fleet Command", and sometimes just "Starfleet".

1977 – FADM Bradbury stepped down and was replaced by FADM Adeline Longshaw. Under FADM Longshaw, many things became more standardized. Specifically, "Starfleet Central" referred to the Office of the Chief of Staff (senior officer in the fleet), "Starfleet Headquarters" referred to the other Admiralty Board members and their support staff, and the overall organization became "Starfleet Command".

1980 – FADM Longshaw stepped down in late 1979 and FADM John Wetsch became the new Chief of Staff on January 1, 1980.

1981 – VADM Eric Stillwell, Vice Chief of Personnel, declares himself Fleet Admiral and places himself in the position of "Commanding Admiral." After refusing to return membership rosters to FADM Wetsch, VADM Stillwell was ejected from Starfleet Command with the support of the Admiralty Board.

1986 – FADM Wetsch is elected to the Chief of Staff position.

1987 – FADM Wetsch resigned and FADM Don Dailey became the new Chief of Staff.

1990 – FADM Dailey is elected to the Chief of Staff position. This term formally began on January 1, 1991.

1994 – FADM Rita Cawthon-Clark is elected to the Chief of Staff position. Her term began on January 1, 1995.

1996 – FADM Cawthon-Clark resigns in August, 1996 and is replaced by FADM Wayne Chang. The Chief of Staff position is renamed "Commander-In-Chief," the Chief of Staff position is changed to handle only the Command Staff Support and is filled by VADM Paul Sundstrom, the Chief of Personnel position is brought back to be part of the Admiralty Board.

"I have greatly enjoyed this organization, both being a regular ship member, a member of Staff, and the privilege of serving as the Chief of Fleet Operations, the Chief of Staff and, currently, the Chief of Records. In all that I have undertaken, I have done my best to help. I was greatly honored to receive the Lifetime Achievement Award last year but that did not signal an end to my involvement and wish to help and serve. The friendships that have formed because of involvement in this club have enriched my life. To many of you, I can say I truly call you friends and even family {by choice}. When I first joined in late 1990, I was looking for new friendships. I got much more than I could have ever hoped. Sandy, my wife, awaited me aboard the USS Starfire, my first ship. The man I gave my initial dues to, Don Dailey, has become more than a friend, almost a brother, certainly a mentor."

(ADM. Paul Sundstrom -2003 SFC NL # 61)

Paul was the recipient of the Lifetime Achievement Award in 2002.

The AFEDs were amended on August 8, 2002 as well as the membership application and renewal form being updated and placed on the website for access.

SFC Helps National Kidney Foundation

On September 21, 2002, the National Kidney Foundation of Indiana held its annual Black Tie Gala Benefit dinner in Indianapolis at the Marriott downtown. In addition to dinner tickets, funds were also raised by silent auction with a variety of items and services donated by local businesses.

The events theme "The Final Frontier" allowed attendees to enjoy the complete Star Trek atmosphere. Starfleet Command was asked to have a few of its members present in costume to enhance the futuristic ambiance of the dinner. Special thanks to all those SFC members who attended in Star Trek costume.

A side benefit for all those who attended: Anthony Montgomery (Ensign Travis Mayweather) was the guest of honor for the event.

The Admiralty Board and staff.

It was during this time that 'Retention Awards' were established, and awarded to each chapter who retained their membership for the previous renewal year.

The staff set up guidelines for 'Board of Inquiry' and 'Court Martials', which can still be found in the Articles of Federation.

Staff member Tony (Anthony) Scott designed 'Policies and Procedures for Unit Treasuries', which were set in place for all unit.

April - June, 2000

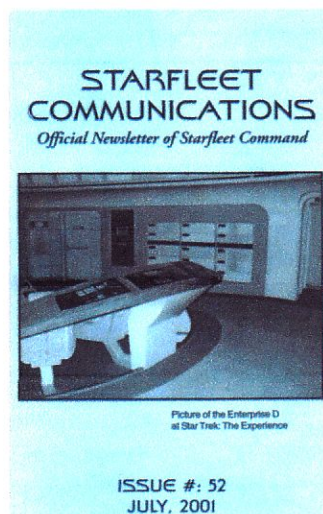

The Fleet Olympics were/are held in July of every year and became an SFC sanctioned event under Mr. Bischoff's term. It was/is designated as a weekend of camping and games and continues as of this publication.

The creation of the new member cd became the standard practice. Up to this point, the organization had mailed a complete paper copy of the AFEDs and other documents to new members. Using the cd decreased the mailing costs exponentially.

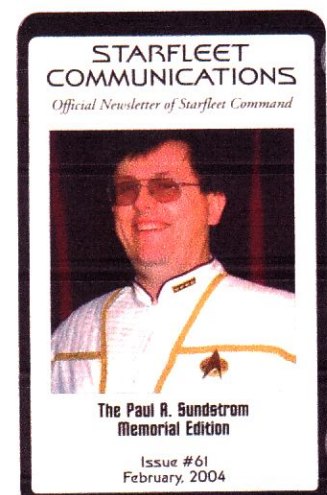

Banking for the organization was changed to a new venue and became 5th Third Bank, where it remains as of this publication.

It should also be noted that in 2004, SFC was granted tax-exempt status from the IRS.

In 2004 the newsletter changed again and took on a new look.

Issue #60 September 2003

"As with any organization, we have challenges ahead of us. The primary challenge ahead of us is growth to the organization, reaching out to find those individuals who are like-minded and can see the benefits that an organization like ours brings not only to them personally but to their community as well. I've always believed that the goal of this organization is to not only work hard and support each other and our communities, but to also play hard and enjoy each other's company while supporting the ideals of Star Trek." New Position - Fleet Chaplain

Starfleet Command created a new Fleet position - Fleet Chaplain which I was recently appointed. My qualifications in the "Real World" are as follows:

- Degree in Ministry from Liberty University
- Currently working on a Bachelor's Degree in Christian Family Counseling, and a Leadership Degree in the community for the blind from Lutheran Braille Institute.
- Ordained and certified to perform weddings, etc.

I'm looking forward to assisting all people whether in fandom or not. Do not hesitate to call at anytime. I am equally looking forward to meeting new people and embarking on new adventures

All conversations in fandom or otherwise will stay confidential unless otherwise specified.

So, if you are stressed and feel things have been better or you just need someone to talk to, pick up the phone and give me a call... ANYTIME! (937-655-9512) Don't worry about the time, I'd rather you call too late as opposed to not at all.

Thank you,

LTCOR Esther Russell

At this time, Yahoo List-serv was used as the mass messaging system for SFC Q1 as well as for individual chapters. This is the original ListServ proposal by FCPT Mitchell dated July 16, 2003. (Newsletter SFC Communications)

User Guidelines for all Starfleet Command (SFC) LISTSERVS:

Welcome SFC members, the following guidelines are provided as a courtesy to assist you in communicating with everyone in SFC, and/or your local Star Base (SB) region. Please save this e-mail for future reference.

Should you have any questions, concerns, or suggestions, please send an e-mail to the Fleet LISTSERV Administrator, CMDR Roy Jackson:

listserv@starfleet-command.com or the ASST LISTSERV ADMIN SFC, LT Cyndi Jackson: cyndi_jackson@hotmail.com We will try to answer your e-mail within 2 working days.

If you are concerned about numerous e-mails, you may select the "DIGEST OPTION" when joining a LISTSERV, or the "NO MAIL" option if you wish to go to the Yahoo Groups LISTSERV site to view e-mails.

If you select "NO MAIL" you should check the LISTSERV site at least every other day in order to keep abreast of current happening in SFC & within your local SB region.

The Following Guidelines are for SFC Main LISTSERV and every SB LISTSERV.

GUIDELINES for SFC Main LISTSERV & Every SB LISTSERV

No Flaming Always respect one another

No SPAM Self-explanatory

NO Chain Letters/Hoax letters These can get real annoying

No Selling of Merchandise (unless prior approval given by COC, SFC).

Please utilize SFC Website if you wish to offer items for sale

No foul language or jokes in poor taste Remember children are members of the LISTSERV

Messages may not be reposted TO or FROM other LISTSERVS without permission from the Fleet LISTSERV Administrator.

Please put OFF TOPIC (OT) if you post anything not directly pertinent to SFC, space exploration, or science. When replying to any e-mail, CUT & PASTE the part you are replying too. Do not repeat the whole e-mail. No one wants to reread an e-mail they have already read. If you want to reread any e-mail, visit the LISTSERV at Yahoogroups.com. All messages are archived there under the "MESSAGE" section. Everyone is entitled to his or her opinion. If you disagree with a posting DO NOT post your disagreement to the whole LISTSERV. Send a private message to the author of the original e-mail. If you wish to post e-mail to any LISTSERV, but are unsure if it is pertinent, send it to the Fleet Administrator for approval FIRST before posting.

New guidelines may be added, deleted, or changed when necessary. These will be posted to the appropriate LISTSERV. You are responsible for knowing the guidelines. Ignorance of the guidelines is no excuse.

The Fleet LISTSERV Administrator, DCOC, or COC have final and total control over any postings to SFC LISTSERV & Every SB LISTSERV.

Starfleet Command started in 1974. From its beginnings in North America, it has spread into several continents including Europe, Australia, & Asia. The worldwide headquarters still resides in the United States. The top position is known as the Commander-In-Chief. Each of the Quadrants is administered by a group of officers known as the Admiralty Board. They are responsible to see that memberships are processed, newsletters published, awards are given out and policy is explained. Regional headquarters known as Starbases provide a liaison between the local ships and the Admiralty Board. The organization is patterned after Star Trek in any of its various forms. Since the show spans a wide range of time, slight alterations are needed to maintain consistency. The local units are led by a senior officer known as the commanding officer. The members of each unit can choose from a variety of areas including Communications, Engineering, Medical, Operations, Science, Security, Marines or Search & Rescue. They need not have actual experience in these areas but if they want to choose an area that they have experience in, that is also possible. The organization has a rank structure but this is mostly to facilitate the passing of information from the unit level to the Starbase level to the Admiralty Board level. The main purpose is to offer people the opportunity to meet together with common interests. Starfleet Command is a social club based on Star Trek so it takes on the appearance of a military organization without the rigidity normally associated with the military.

—APPLICATION ON REVERSE SIDE—

If you wish to start your own unit, complete the information below along with the application on the reverse side and send them in along with any additional membership applications and dues for your prospective crew. Once received and processed, you will have a Ship Commissioning Certificate and packets to pass out to your people. You will have the fun of putting together what you want to do for yourselves. All we ask is 2 things - that you (as a group) keep us informed of what you are doing and that the Commanding Officer is at least 18 years of age. Please suggest 2 or 3 possible Ship names so that if you pick a name that is used, one of the other names can be used. Also, suggest an NCC number for your unit (unless you choose to be a Planetary Outpost or Space Station).

Starfleet Command celebrated 30 years of existence in October 2004. The celebration was held at SBI (Starbase Indy) in November of 2004. There were 2 events with SFC lending a presence to 'Dinner with the Stars' and a formal gala held the following day.

(Excerpt from issue #62 Starfleet Communications)

Also, Starfleet Command's 30th anniversary celebration will be held at the new Starbase Indy's Dinner with the Stars. Price for the dinner is $50 or you can get an all-inclusive weekend ticket so that you can enjoy the convention as well. We are planning a formal gala Starfleet uniform or black-tie. Details to follow in future emails and newsletters!

Mark Williams will attempt a conference call with Tony Scott and a representative from Café Press about using their services for SFC official gear (shirts, hats ups, etc.).

September * 2012 Meeting Minutes:

DFC Williams advised the Board of the new SPAR reporting procedures and that they have been sent to all the CO's and SB commanders. These will be used for the criteria for next year's awards.

DFC Williams also brought up the idea of a membership CD to be sent to new members instead of all the paper items we currently send—exams, AFED's etc.

The new Marine Division that was formed and is being led by COL Derek Sauls is very active as they are coming up with a unit patch and uniform as well as the tests for rank promotion within the Marine unit. ADM Shell asked to be kept in the loop with this group.

DON DAILEY

Fleet Admiral Don Dailey has been with STARFLEET COMMAND all 15 years of its existence. He started out as a red-shirted security ensign in October of 1974, and assumed the Fleet's top position, Chief of Staff, in June of 1987. In the intervening years, FADM Dailey worked his way through the ranks as Security Officer, Science Officer, First Officer and Commanding Officer aboard such fleet ships as the U.S.S. EAGLE, U.S.S. KRIEGER, U.S.S. ALTAIR and U.S.S. EXCALIBUR. In between ship commands, he held various staff positions, including Command Assistance Coordinator, Inspector General, Chief of Communications, Admiralty Board Advisor and Deputy Chief of Staff.

In the "real world," Sergeant First Class Don Dailey of the U.S. Army retired in April of 1988 with over 20 years of service. During this career, he was assigned to such overseas areas as Vietnam, Germany, Japan, Alaska and Hawaii. Stateside he was stationed at military installations in Texas, Arizona, Washington, New Jersey, California and Indiana. The bulk of his career was served as a Personnel Sergeant, but he also worked as an Infantryman, Northern Warfare Expert, Instructor, Behavioral Science Specialist, Training Developer and Field Manual Writer/Editor.

Since his retirement from the military, Don has been a full-time student with Ball State University. He has recently completed the requirements for a master's degree in political science and a second master's in executive development.

In addition to his activities with STARFLEET COMMAND, Don is actively involved with other fan groups. The Indianapolis-based Circle of Janus science fiction club, the local MENSAs chapter, the Illustrations Clients (Sherlock Holmes) and the Federation Technicians' League all vie for the little spare time he has available.

On the family side, Don and his wife Janet are approaching their 16th anniversary (fortunately, she is also a TREK and science fiction fan). They have two daughters, ages 8 and 3. The term "menagerie" is a good description of the Dailey household. In addition to the two "rug-rat" daughters, there are cats, fish, birds and an ever-increasing number of rabbits underfoot.
